The 32nd season of the Early Music in Columbus concert series continues with the Norman/Greenberg Duo in *Let Me In This Ae Night on Friday, Feb. 3, 2012, 8 pm in Mees Hall at Capital University. A pre-concert lecture will be presented at 7:30 pm.

Two of the most imaginative and dynamic performers in traditional and early music join forces to present a program that runs the gamut from Renaissance, Baroque, traditional and original music incorporating flutes, violins, vielles, pipes, keyboards, and voice. The program presents music from the CD Let Me In This Ae Night, Scottish and Baroque music being the main root elements with the music of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia featured prominently in the program.

Chris Norman is known for both his solo and ensemble work with The Baltimore Consort, Helicon, Skyedance and Concerto Caledonia. His solo CD releases have received unanimous praise from critics and audiences alike. His debut Man With the Wooden Flute made the Billboard crossover charts for 12 weeks. Since that time Norman has collaborated, toured and recorded with some of today's most seminal artists in the genres of early music and traditional folk music. David Greenberg has gained the reputation in Cape Breton music circles as being one of the few people from outside the Nova Scotia island to have achieved a fluent command of the Cape Breton idiom. These two extraordinary performers have played together as sparring partners for more than a decade on the concert stage and recording studio.

The Early Music in Columbus concert series features regional, national and international artists who perform music from the medieval, Renaissance and Baroque periods on reproductions of historical instruments. Tickets are $27 general admission, $22 for seniors and $12.00 for students and may be purchased through the web site: www.earlymusicincolumbus.org, at the door or charged by phone.
